6 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
7 AT SEATTLE

8 HAROLD L. HUTCHINSON, Jr.,

9 Plaintiff,

10 v.

11 GARRISON PROPERTY AND
12 CASUALTY INSURANCE CO.,

13 Defendant.

Case No. C18-0656RSM

ORDER GRANTING IN PART
PLAINTIFF'S SUPPLEMENTAL
MOTION FOR FEES AND COSTS

14 I. INTRODUCTION

15 This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff's Supplemental Motion for Fees and 16 Costs. Dkt. #16. This Court previously granted Plaintiff's request for the reasonable fees and 17 costs he incurred to bring a motion for remand. Dkt. #15. The Court directed Plaintiff to file a 18 supplemental motion setting forth the fees and costs requested, along with the proper support for 19 those fees and costs. Id. Plaintiff now seeks $6,450.00 in attorneys' fees, and no costs.
20 Defendant has filed an opposition to Plaintiff's supplemental motion, asserting that the request
21 is unreasonable, unjust, and unsubstantiated. Dkt. #18. Defendant requests that Plaintiff's
22 attorneys' fees be reduced to $2,165.00. For the reasons discussed below, the Court agrees with
23 Defendant that Plaintiff's request is unreasonable, and now GRANTS IN PART Plaintiff's
24 motion as further discussed below.

II. DISCUSSION

A. Legal Standard

“When it sets a fee, the district court must first determine the presumptive lodestar figure by multiplying the number of hours reasonably expended on the litigation by the reasonable hourly rate.” Intel Corp. v. Terabyte Int’l, Inc., 6 F.3d 614, 622 (9th Cir. 1993). The reasonable hourly rate is determined with reference to the prevailing rates charged by attorneys of comparable skill and experience in the relevant community. See Blum v. Stetson, 465 U.S. 886, 895 (1984). In determining the reasonable number of hours expended on the litigation, the Court may exclude any excessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary hours billed. Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 434 (1983). The Court may also adjust the lodestar with reference to factors set forth in Kerr v. Screen Extras Guild, Inc., 526 F.2d 67, 69-70 (9th Cir. 1975). The relevant Kerr factors are: (1) the time and labor required; (2) the novelty and difficulty of the questions; and (3) the skill requisite to perform the legal services properly. “The lodestar amount presumably reflects the novelty and complexity of the issues, the special skill and experience of counsel, the quality of representation, and the results obtained from the litigation.” Intel, 6 F.3d at 622.

B. Reasonableness of Rates

The Court first examines the hourly rate for time billed by his counsel requested by Plaintiff. Plaintiff seeks a billing rate of $450 per hour for the work performed by attorney Gary N. Gosanko, $375 per hour for the work performed by attorney Nicholas J. Lepore, and $150 per hour for the work performed by paralegal Joanna Jackowich. Dkt. #17 at ¶¶ 3, 5 and 10. “The party seeking fees bears the burden of documenting the hours expended in the litigation and must submit evidence supporting . . . the rates claimed.” Welch v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 480 F.3d 942,

1 945-46 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Hensley, 461 U.S. at 433). In the Ninth Circuit, “the determination
2 of a reasonable hourly rate ‘is not made by reference to the rates actually charged the prevailing
3 party.’” Welch, 480 F.3d at 946 (quoting Mendenhall v. Nat’l Transp. Safety Bd., 213 F.3d 464,
4 471 (9th Cir. 2000)). “Rather, billing rates should be established by reference to the fees that
5 private attorneys of an ability and reputation comparable to that of prevailing counsel charge
6 their paying clients for legal work of similar complexity.” Id. (internal quotation omitted).
7 “Affidavits of the plaintiffs’ attorney and other attorneys regarding prevailing fees in the 8 community, and rate determinations in other cases, particularly those setting a rate for the 9 plaintiffs’ attorney, are satisfactory evidence of the prevailing market rate.” United Steelworkers
10 of Am. v. Phelps Dodge Corp., 896 F.2d 403, 407 (9th Cir. 1990). “Generally, when determining 11 a reasonable hourly rate, the relevant community is the forum in which the district court sits.”
12 Camacho v. Bridgeport Fin., Inc., 523 F.3d 973, 979 (9th Cir. 2008) (vacating award of 13 attorneys’ fees in Fair Debt Collection Practices Act case where district court failed to identify 14 the relevant community or address the prevailing market rate).

15
17 In this case, Plaintiff has not presented adequate evidence supporting the reasonableness
18 of the rates requested in this market. See Dkt. #17. Indeed, Plaintiff’s counsel merely states in 19 conclusory fashion the he “believes” the rates requested are reasonable. Further, the Court
20 observes that at the time Plaintiff filed his original request for fees (in his motion to remand), just 21 one month prior to filing the instant motion, Attorney Gosanko asserted to the Court that his 22 hourly rate is $400 per hour. Dkt. #11 at ¶ 9. Defendant does not address the reasonableness of 23 the rates in this market, but does ask the Court to apply the billing rate of $400 per hour, rather 24 than $450 per hour, for the time spent by Attorney Gosanko related to the motion for remand.
25
26
27
28

1 Given the Court's familiarity with the Seattle-area/Western District of Washington
2 market and the rates typically charged by experienced attorneys in these types of cases, the Court
3 finds that a rate of $400 for Attorney Gosanko is reasonable. The Court further finds that the 4 rates requested for Attorney Lepore ($375/hr) and Paralegal Jackowich ($150/hr) are reasonable.

5 C. Reasonableness of Hours

6 The Court now turns to the reasonableness of the hours requested. "The party seeking 7 fees bears the burden of documenting the hours expended in the litigation and must submit
8 evidence supporting" the request. Hensley, 461 U.S. at 433. As noted above, the Court excludes 9 those hours that are not reasonably expended because they are "excessive, redundant, or 10 otherwise unnecessary." Hensley, 461 U.S. at 434. Further, the Ninth Circuit has held it is 11 reasonable for a district court to conclude that the party seeking attorney's fees fails to carry its 12 burden of documenting the hours expended when that party engages in "block billing" because 13 block billing makes it more difficult to determine how much time was spent on particular 14 activities. Welch v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 480 F.3d 942, 948 (9th Cir. 2007). Likewise, intra-
15 office conferences between experienced counsel, absent persuasive justification by the moving
16 party, may be excluded from an award as unnecessary and duplicative. See id. at 949.

17 Plaintiff has presented a summary description of the time his counsel spent related to the 18 motion for remand. Dkt. #17. Defendant has objected to the number of hours requested as 19 unreasonable, unjust and unsubstantiated, and the Court has independently reviewed Plaintiff's
20 attorneys' billing summary. Dkt. #17. The Court agrees that the time requested for work on the 21 motion to remand and reply in support of that motion, which together totaled nine substantive
22 pages, is unreasonable, as it appears to be redundant and/or excessive. Plaintiff requests 7.2
23 hours by Attorney Gosanko for his work on the motion to remand. Attorney Gosanko previously
24
26
27
28

1 represented to the Court that he worked “over 2.5 hours” to prepare the motion. Dkt. #11 at ¶ 9.
2 Given that representation, the short length of the motion, and the simplicity of the legal issue and
3 analysis, the Court finds a reasonable amount of time to award for the preparation of the motion
4 to be 3.0 hours of time.

5 Plaintiff also requests 2.1 hours by Attorney Gosanko for his work on the Reply in support
6 of the motion to remand, and 4 hours by Attorney Lepore for his work on the same, for a total of 7 6.1 hours. Dkt. #17 at ¶¶ 6 and 10. Given the short length of the reply, and the simplicity of the 8 legal issue and analysis, the Court finds a reasonable amount of time to award for the preparation
9 of the reply brief to be 2.5 hours of time for Attorney Lepore’s work in drafting the reply, and 10 0.5 hours of time for Attorney Gosanko’s review of the reply.
11

12 Finally, the Court has examined the time requested by Paralegal Jackowich. Plaintiff
13 seeks 1.1 hours of Ms. Jackowich’s time for “review, file, and distribute Motion,” which are job
14 functions primarily administrative in nature. As discussed above, the Court does not typically 15 award fees for such work. Thus, the Court will award fees for 0.7 hours of Ms. Jackowich’s time.
16 Dkt. #17 at ¶ 8.
17

18 As a result, the Court will award attorney’s fees for the work performed pertaining to the 19 motion to remand, as follows:
20

21 Gosanko 3.5 hrs x $400/hr = $1,400.00

22 Lepore 2.5 hrs x $375/hr = $937.50

23 Jackowich 0.7 hrs x $150/hr = $105.00
24

25 TOTAL = $2,442.50.

1 D. Lodestar Adjustment

2 The Court finds that the time set forth above, less the reductions noted by the Court,
3 reflects the reasonable time spent working on the motion to remand and does not find it necessary
4 to make any other lodestar adjustments.

5 E. Costs

6 Plaintiff does not seek an award of costs on this motion. Dkt. #16 at 2.

7 III. CONCLUSION

8 Having considered Plaintiff's Supplemental Motion for Fees and Costs, the Declaration
9 in support thereof, the Opposition thereto, and the remainder of the record, the Court hereby finds
10 and ORDERS that Plaintiff's motion (Dkt. #16) is GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN 11 PART for the reasons discussed above. Plaintiff is awarded attorneys' fees in the amount of 12 $2,442.50.
